STUDENTS!
YOU NEED THIS JOURNAL
if your career plans include the practice or study of state and local governments.

About the Review

State and Local Government Review is the only national journal devoted exclusively to articles relevant to the policies, politics, and management of state and local government in an intergovernmental context. Published by the Carl Vinson Institute of Government at the University of Georgia, the Review is sponsored by the Section on Intergovernmental Administration and Management (SIAM) of the American Society for Public Administration.

As a student subscriber, you will be introduced to research directly related to issues confronting today's public administrators. After you graduate, the Review will contribute to your professional advancement by keeping you connected and current.

Reasonable Rates

Dear Department Chair:

I am writing to ask that you make your graduate students in public policy and public administration aware of the State and Local Government Review (SLGR), a refereed journal published by the Carl Vinson Institute of Government at the University of Georgia and sponsored by the American Society of Public Administration's Section on Intergovernmental Administration and Management (SIAM). Attached is a document that can be printed and posted on bulletin boards and/or distributed to students by email.

SLGR, which is reasonably priced and affordable for graduate students, seeks to publish articles that speak to both academics and professionals. Readers with interests in state and local government politics, policy, and administration will find articles that will enhance their understanding of how policy is made and how programs are managed in our intergovernmental system. For students preparing for careers in public management (MPAs) and applied/scholarly research (PhDs), I believe the journal will prove to be an important resource in their efforts to become competent and informed professionals.

We appreciate your help in making SLGR more accessible to graduate students in your department or program. Please contact me if you have any questions about the journal and how it can benefit your students.

Yours sincerely,

Michael J. Scicchitano, Ph.D.
